

BIO

Phd. Antoneta Ramaj has completed her university studies in the field "Albanian language and literature" at the Faculty of History and Philology of the University of Tirana. She has successfully finished her Master Degree in "Albanian language teaching methodology" at this same faculty in the linguistics department and has the title "Doctor of Science" in applied linguistics, provided by the Center for Albanian Studies, Tirana.

During the period 1993-1998 she was a Methodist of the Albanian language in Tirana, while during the years 2002-2005 she worked as an inspector in the Educational Directorate of Tirana. In the period between 2007-2010 she was a specialist of the Albanian language curriculum at the Institute of Curriculum and Training (ICT), while from 2010-2019 she worked in the Directorate of Curriculum Evaluation at the National Inspectorate of Education and the State Inspectorate of Education.

From the year 2019 and following, Mrs. Ramaj was in the Directorate of Quality Assessment at the Agency for Quality Assurance of Pre-University Education (ASCAP). In addition, from 2015 she works as an external lecturer in the education department at "Marin Barleti" University, Tirana.

She is the author of many textbooks to help teachers in their everyday teaching process, as well as the author of several scientific articles published in the country and abroad.

Antoneta Ramaj has been an essential part of the working groups for the creating different level tests in national exams (examination and state matura).

In addition, she has been a member and has led working groups in projects related to the professional development of teachers, as well as being a national and international trainer in various topics and issues concerning school development.

Since 2023 until now she is a full-time lecturer at the Department of Education Sciences and Vocational Training.

ANTONETA RAMAJ

DOCTOR OF SCIENCE

CAREER OVERVIEW

Dr. Antoneta Ramaj is a lecturer at the Department of Education Sciences and Professional Training.

FIELDS OF EXPERTISE

- research in the field of education, curriculum design, development, and evaluation in general and of the Albanian language and literature curriculum in particular
- teacher training
- teaching methodology
- student assessment
- development of critical thinking
- inclusion in education
- school evaluation

EMAIL

a.ramaj@umb.edu.al